

Nitro in shining armour

Bristling with stubble-removing enthusiasm – gentlemen, we give you the latest Gillette M3Power NITRO Razor!*

"I'm pickin' up good vibrations / She's giving me excitations." Sure, The Beach Boys were probably singing about some top-heavy surfer girl, but that's only because the Gillette M3Power NITRO Razor hadn't been invented in 1966. In fact, it's just been launched. Sending 200 micro-pulses into your face each second, this razor helps raise hair so you can shave more thoroughly using fewer strokes – which means less skin irritation. What's more, the attached PowerGlide blades are coated in vitamin E and aloe – the very same stuff in the soothing MACH3 NITRO Shave Gel. All in all, it's Gillette's best shave yet. Look over there, even David Beckham's loving it.

TEND IT LIKE BECKHAM

To keep your face looking great, follow David Beckham's shaving tips

- Shower before you shave. Warm water causes hair to expand, softening bristles.
- Apply plenty of shaving gel – it reduces friction between blade and skin.
- Rinse the blade frequently to prevent the build up of hair.
- Leave difficult spots like the chin till last as more time soaking in shave gel with soften the beard further.
- Afterwards, rinse your face in cold water, pat dry and apply a moisturiser.

*We're not actually giving them to you.
They cost £8.99 from all good razor-selling shops. And some bad ones too.
