

RULE 1

Your hands will be tied by a fixed number of minutes and text messages. But no longer, because with Flex from T-Mobile the world's not so rigid anymore

RULE 2

You will always be kept in the dark as to how many call minutes and texts you have left. But no longer, because with Flex from T-Mobile the world's not so rigid anymore

WITH FLEXT YOU ARE KEPT UP-TO-DATE

You've chosen your plan and you want to stick to it, but keeping a tab on your phone usage isn't easy. Thanks to Flex from T-Mobile, you'll know your allowance every week

FLEXT MESSAGE

As our lives become increasingly busy, monitoring the length of the calls we make and the number of texts we send is one chore that the majority of us could do without. But how else do you know whether or not you are safely within your allowance before it's too late?

Flex makes things simple by sending free weekly texts to you to let you know how much you have left to spend before your next bill. So if you find yourself eating into your call and text allowance, weekly text updates will give you the opportunity to keep everything in check. That way you have one less thing to worry about.

But that's not all. Often mobile companies will wait for you to query your bill before examining your records and recommending a more appropriate plan. Flex on the other hand, will contact you every six months for a "Best Plan" check-up to see that you're on the right plan for your needs. If you're not, then you can migrate to any plan in T-Mobile's range that's best suited to your needs. And with six different price plans, ranging from £20 to £75 per month, you're sure to find one that suits you perfectly.

Flex is about making things easier for you however things change.