WITH ONE OF THE WORLD'S THINNEST FRAMES AROUND A SUPERB SCREEN, TOSHIBA'S NEW LCD TV IS TRUE BIG-SCREEN VIEWING

You can sit down in front of a big-screen TV and it's more like a big-frame TV. Around the outside of the viewing panel, a thick edge that seems to shrink the picture and diverts your eye. With Toshiba's new and HD Ready REGZA XF series, you won't have that problem, because it has the thinnest bezel on the market. It's all picture and no frame, and it looks stunning. Available in both 40in and 46in versions, the Toshiba REGZA XF boasts three HDMI sockets for all your HD kit (games consoles, HD DVD players, Sky HD) and Active Vision picture processing technology for a rich, sharp image, regardless of what you're watching. Seamlessly integrated into the front of the panel are fabulous speakers from audio experts Onkyo.

That small frame, available in red as well as black, also makes the TV feel like it's taking up less space in a room – a big plus if you're trying to convince your other half of big-screen benefits. There is one thing to bear in mind here. Once your friends see your Toshiba REGZA XF TV, you'll have to buy more food and a bigger sofa. It'll be 'all back to yours' all the time.
